The Captain and First Mate

Branksome's principal, Mrs. Belash.

Branksome Hall is a community of continuity and change. Continuity, because that is what the good school is all about; change, because we live at a time when the society around us is evolving in ways that twenty years ago were unsuspected. We know how Branksome has responded to this evolution: brand new buildings for junior school students and senior school athletics; computer labs; extra grades to respond to demographic trends; a different structure for the middle years; first one, soon two residences turned to other uses. On top of that, the need to adapt to changing leadership, and to absorb new plans for next year.

But change swirls around the periphery of a healthy school. A true learning community knows how to respond flexibly, gracefully to the demands of the moment, with no loss of centre, no disruption of the community's pulse. This book captures that pulse; it measures and records the heartbeat that underlies identity and guarantees continuity.

A yearbook that captures the essence of Branksome Hall throbs with life. Vital movement from kindergarten to graduating year, movement in classes, athletics, the arts, clubs, clans, informal get-togethers, intense discussions, passionate arguments. A photograph is static, but the good photograph speaks of the life behind it: the group of teachers in a department, for instance, hints at the power of the personalities, the strength of the voices, the spectrum of opinions, the influence on the students' learning and lives. The clan, nicely posed, summons to our imagination the energy and enthusiasm and sheer fun of those clan activities, the strength of the spirit they engender, the leadership opportunities they provide.

Taken as a whole, cover to cover, this Slogan is our record of a year that has seen little girls in Junior Kindergarten start school, and young women in grades 12 and 13 prepare to leave us and start a new adventure. Some have started a journey, some are in transit, so to speak, some are coming to the end. And the same is true of the adults who are also recorded here, some after many years, some for the first time. What we all share is the knowledge that we are part of this fascinating and powerful school, so near to downtown Toronto, yet so secure in its sense of its own life. It is a place of paradox — the old and the new, the spiritual and the physical, harmony and dissonance, beginnings and endings. It is a place of friendships, of love, commitment, dedication, challenge, growth. When the challenges are hard and the growth difficult, there are support and encouragement, words of comfort and of caring. It is a school with a heart, a school to be proud of in return. Graduates, you are leaving a small community for a bigger arena, but this community will always be yours. You are part of its continuity, and soon you will be part of a community that will always have a sense of commonality, because the words "I went to Branksome" will have special meaning for you. You'll meet graduates from other years, who remember the same physical surroundings with different contours, but who are as sure as you that being a Branksome alumna provides a special context for whatever life may bring. Good luck, all of you, and bon voyage.

I am sure that many of you are familiar with Robert Fulgham's piece, "All I ever really needed to know, I learned in Kindergarten." I have created a similar version, and would like to share it with you.

THE BASIC ESSENTIALS: Most of what I need to know, I learned at Branksome.

Word Hard — nothing will ever be handed to you. You must keep things in perspective and set goals. The greatest feeling is knowing that you put everything you possibly could have into something you really wanted to accomplish.

Play hard — you will always have a million other things you ought to be doing, but take that rest — it will only keep you sane.

Always hold your tie near your body when getting up from the table, or else it will slip into your soup.

Be yourself. I am a country girl from Queensville and I never thought I would be standing up here today.

If you are true to yourself and to others, nobody can touch you.

If you say the word "pomegranate" at the carol service, it really does look like you know the words.

If you have the slightest desire to try something new, go for it. You may never know where it may have led you.

Teachers are humans. They were once students like ourselves.

Gum can be hidden very well under your tongue even when speaking. Do not try it with cinnamon flavour — it burns.

Never be afraid to say no. We all lead very busy lives and we must know and accept our personal limitations.

Be honest. A teacher will respect your honesty, and she will usually let you keep those extra marks she gave you by mistake.

Carpe Diem. If you normally would say "no" in a particular circumstance, just go ahead and do it. The chance may never arise again.

And finally, always wear bloomers under your kilt on a windy day.

Branksome's Head girl, Robyn Thompson.

SLOGAN STAFF

Hi everyone !!

Just a quick postcard to tell you all what has been happening. Our trip turned out to be a great success, both our travel companions & chaperons (you know who you are) were dedicated & enthusiastic throughout our journey. Be it Sunday outings or Tuesday luncheons everyone had a good time. Throughout this entire adventure we worked hard & played hard. We hope you you enjoy your journey as much as we did.

Bon Voyage !!!

Director of Residence
Nancy Northgrave

As Travel is the theme of "The Slogan '95", it appears to be a most appropriate one for my Residence article. As we have so many international and domestic travellers, I feel, at times, like a travel agent when I confirm flight times, handle tickets and passports, and meet the younger girls when they arrive in Toronto.

In many ways, Residence is comparable to the "running of a ship" so I am using this analogy as my focus.

"S.S. Residence" arrived at the Port of Branksome on September 5, 1994. On board were many representatives from various places around the world: Africa, Barbados, Belgium, Bermuda, Canada, Hong Kong, Japan, Mexico, Montserrat, Republic of China, Senegal, Suriname, Taiwan, Thailand, Trinidad, and the United States of America.

There was great excitement among the returning "student passengers" to renew friendships and acquaintances, and for the new "student passengers" to experience a new way of life! Soon everybody was settled into their cabins (bedrooms!).

As on any ship, there are lectures on various subjects and of course, entertainment! The Dining Room is one of the main rooms on a ship, and "S.S. Residence" is no exception! Our theme dinners are popular events in which we celebrated Thanksgiving, Hallowe'en, Christmas, Chinese New Year, Valentine's Night, Easter, an "Italian NIght" and "International Buffet Evening".

Shore excursions have been arranged to see ballet performances ("The Nutcracker" and "Swan Lake"), movies, theatre, and shops. Other places of interest which have been visited are: C.N. Tower, Chudleigh's Apple Farm, Ontario Science Centre, Medieval Times' Banquet, The Royal Winter Fair, Centre Island and many more. Sporting activities have included aerobics, swimming, dancing, skating and skiing.

The Captain has an excellent staff who make for a smooth sailing although occasionally stormy seas may appear, but fortunately not often! I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Residence Dons, the Nurses, the Administrative Staff, the Housekeeping, Kitchen and Maintenance Departments for all they do.

Also, this seems a most appropriate time to thank the members of the Residence Council under the leadership of Jimena Lance, our Residence Prefect, for all they do. I appreciate all their input and suggestions.

To you all, may you have a safe and enjoyable summer vacation. To the Graduating Year, all the best in your future endeavours and "Keep Well the Road!" Thank you all for yet another good year.

Residence Prefect

This was the best year for me at Branksome; there are so many memories that I will keep forever. For me residence is my home away from home — boarding is amazing!

Residence is a place where you have twenty-nine sisters and you share every little thing: the kitchen, the T.V., our clothes, the phone and even homework, but the most important thing is that we share our feelings and problems. We share our fears and our dreams, and we find the real meaning of the word friendship. There are so many girls from many different countries; you learn from everyone and they learn from you.

Living in residence was one of the most amazing experiences I have ever had. I will never forget 90210 and Melrose, our dinner leaves, late leaves and of course our gossiping in the rooms late at night. I would like to thank the residence council for their support and work during the year, my housemothers and Miss Northgrave for their help and guidance in my decisions. I would also like to thank Robyn and Renata for being there for me all this time and of course all the people who lived here, because each one of you made residence the best.

Thanks to N.N., S.S., D.G., V.J., B.C., and J.M. for encouraging me in my work. "What I like most of all about residence is that you always have someone to support you."

Love you and miss you!

Jimena.

Head of Junior School

Each year since I have arrived at Branksome, there has been some significant change to the west side of the campus. This year we began without the Grade 8 students with us, but with one more Grade 4 class. We feel much more like a true junior school, even though we miss seeing the older girls each day. Our Grade 7 leaders are bubbly and enthusiastic, especially about their two new clans, and are at this writing, already full of creative ideas for bringing the younger and newer girls together. The Junior Division consists now of two classes at each of grades 4, 5, and 6, and it occupies the entire lower floor of the Sue Bett House.

In our Junior School we aim every day to show love of learning and great care for each other. From Mrs. Meyer in guidance, who affirms every girls' worth and strength, to Miss Brough, who attends to a myriad of details each day, yet takes time to work with student leaders and to manage the teaching of the school's traditions, to every teacher from Mrs. Medland on up, there is not a classroom in which curiosity, excitement and commitment are not evident. Our co-curriculum, too, is packed with activity and is more diverse than ever, so that all girls can experiment with skill building outside the classroom. And, of course, our links with our big sisters, through Sam Weiss and the prefects, give the little girls a sense of being part of a large and loving family, a feeling of belonging rare in any school.

Reading this wonderful book will give you all a vivid memory of a terrific year, but you can get to know the Junior School any day you wish — just come on over!

Director of Students — Junior School

This year has been quite unique in the fact that we have had a few "firsts": the twinning of Junior and Senior Schools clans, two new Clans, Macdonald and Gordon an all school Clan Gathering (with a piper!), Chieftains and Sports Captain appointed from Grade Seven; Thanks to the staff our co-curricular activities have been a west eclectic mix, ranging from The Arts Clubs, Maths/Science Club to Wen-Do, with many more in between.

To Jedi and the chieftains a most successful year, thank you; and to Sam, your ever present smile, sense of humour, caring and enthusiasm made each of us feel so special, to you goes our year and best wishes.

Junior School Prefect

J is for the Junior School which cannot be beat
U is for the unbelievable spirit that no one could possibly meet
N is for no one is quite like those crazy girls
I is for their irresistible smiles and their little curls
O is for the Winter Olympics and all the other fun games we've had this year
R is for rallies, boy they sure can cheer!
S is for sisters and the big sisters they had
C is for clans and the first school wide event, the bag pipes curls quite rad
H is for Halloween, the jelly bean count and the pinata in primary was great!
O is for Oooo the talent show was first rate
O this O. is for all the outrageous activities and really great times
L is for long lasting fun and I'm glad that L. is the last letter because I'm running out of rhymes.

Over on the West side of the street we've had such a great year! From pep rallies, talent show, ramabi week, contests to big sister and little sister events, winter Olympics, grade dinners and socials and how could I forget playing on the jungle gym. We've had Sooo much fun! Thank you to the Junior School for your enthusiasm and constant spirit, you girls are the best. I would also like to give a special thanks to Miss Brough, Mrs. Penny and to Jodi and Chieftains I couldn't have done it without you!

Thanks once again to all of the Junior School. I will remember you forever! Keep smiling!

Love, SAM

AUTUMN

I love the colours of the leaves,
they wave back and forth in the breeze
Yellow, orange, green and red,
they make a wonderful bed.
I love how they fall in my hair,
they all twinkle in the air.
Falling down on the ground,
they fall all around.
See them fall so winter can come,
I wish winter wouldn't come,
so I could look at all the leaves, falling down in the breeze.

I found this picture to be quite interesting. It was taken on a dark morning late in the season. This photograph was framed with the heifer's pen. I was also trying to show the contrast between the red dish and the young cow's coat. Also, I was trying to show the pattern in the heifer's coat. I was truly surprised how this photograph turned out.

The Branksome softball teams had a very successful season in the spring of '94. The two junior school teams along with the two senior school teams captured the Independent Schools Championship. The 13's team, all veteran players, won every game, sometimes very convincingly. The 12's team started slowly but its players soon found their form and won all their final games. Congratulations to all the players on their talent, determination and enthusiasm!

The 13 and under team placed second in their very competitive league. The strength of the team was the depth of the natural talent and competency on the tennis court. Despite winter-like conditions all of the team members put forth an excellent effort throughout match play as well as at practices. Although the 13 and under team was rather large every team member recorded a win. This depth of talent helped Branksome to remain as a threat to all our opponents. Congratulations on a great season!

'he 1994 track and field season was once again a season of uccess. At the CISAA finals, Branksome placed first in all 3 ge divisions. The following athletes placed first in the final neet: Allison Peirce, Lauren Lackie, Jenny Black, Julie Mounfield, and Karli Gump. Karli won both the 100 metre and the 00 metre for the second consecutive year. This large team had pirit and heart and a real desire to improve. Congratulations to ll.

Once again, Junior Drama was a great success. First term, 35 devoted girls came out twice a week (and sometimes more) to rehearse for the spectacular musical production, YOU'RE A GOOD MAN CHARLIE BROWN. Second term we met once a week to practice our dramatic skills: mime, movement, and improvisation, among others. A good time was had by all. Thanks to Mme. Knox and Mrs. Schroeder for their help and thanks to all your young thespians for their enthusiasm.

MIDDLE YEARS 1994/95

September saw a number of changes for students in grade 7, 8, and 9. We welcomed 82 new students into these grades. Grade 8 joined grade 9 in crossing "the road" to have their homeroom base on the east side so the number of daily trips across Mount Pleasant has diminished. Grade 7, with 43 new girls, emerged a cohesive group after its three day trip to Bark Lake in October. Grade 8 had a very different experience in February as they did some winter camping at Camp Kandalore. Eight junior chieftains chosen from grade 7 and eight clan representatives chosen from grade 8 helped to bring about the successful twinning of the Junior and Senior clans. The first whole school clan gathering in October was a special event and we thank these girls. Thanks also to the Junior School sports captain, Jodi Wright, the Slogan representatives, swim team captain, class officers, and student life reps in grades 8 and 9, who have put their time and energy into their leadership responsibilities. Homeroom has been a much welcome time to meet as a class group and there have been social events for each of the grades with one of the independent boys' schools. Students have been busy in athletics, debating club, musical groups, grade 7, 8, 9 drama club and a host of other activities. The middle years group has inspired us all with their energy and enthusiasm. We now look forward to grade 7 joining us on the east side in September.

This year, something new was introduced to Branksome — the Middle School. Since then there has been a lot of confusion as to what exactly the Middle School is. Simply, it is the grouping together of grades 7, 8 and 9. At Branksome however, it is difficult to group these grades because we lack a physical building where the three grades can have classes and activities as a unit. This is certainly not a criticism, it is only an acknowledgement that a change such as this cannot happen in its entirety in one year.

We have had many great activities with all 3 grades. To name a few, we "appreciated" both grades 8 and 9 with the help of the U.C.C. boys. We had barbecues with all three grades. The grade 7's went blading at R.P.M. and good times were had by all at the grade 8 dance.

As for location, the grade 8's and 9's are now right at home in the Senior School and the grade 7's seem more than happy to be the oldest of the Junior School.

There have been new developments about bringing the grade 7's across the street next year. Unsurprisingly, the student's reactions were quite varied. The fact is that bringing the grade 7's over is the only way to truly have a Middle School.

To the grade 7's — thanx for keeping things under control on the other side of the road.

To the grade 8's — thanx for making the trip to the Senior School a year early look so easy.

To the grade 9's — thanx for being so cool about the grade 8's coming over with you.

The first year of something new is always the hardest and you guys handled it awesomely. B.H. couldn't have picked a better year to do it. You rock! Megan Ross

THE SLEEPERS

Beneath the glimmering sea is where our souls shall lie.
Above the windblown clouds is where our souls shall fly.
Upon the summer breeze
is where our souls shall rest.
Below the towering trees is where our souls were blessed.

Although we lie alone
we have no need for tears.
For we know in others' memories
we'll live for many years.
Friends from our past
sit by our sides and weep.
They can't understand death is but a sleep.

THE BEGINNING

The bombs were dripped
The guns were shot —
The war had started.

The people ran
The cries that sang —
The pain had started.

PRINCE CHARMING

Sitting upon his window ledge, the lovely lady fair,
Complexion delicate as a rose, sun glittering in her hair.
Her silken kerchief twisted tightly around her fingers,
her gentle sobbing, though stifled, in the air still lingers.
Will he come or will he not?
Oh, how she longs to know!
The gods, cruel gods, oh why so silent, no sign of hope they show.
She dreams about the days to come, the days already passed.
She has fooled herself with visions of love, a love she had thought would last.
But now her prince, her handsome prince, he does not come a riding.
To his word she had thought him true, but never would see the prince she had been dreaming of.
And so she leaped a heartbroken leap out of her lofty tower, and crumpled in a graceful heap upon a leafy bower.
She heaved one last breath, and with a sorrowful sigh,
she slowly, sweetly, proceeded to die.
Then all of a sudden, with a clatter of hooves, a proud white steed could be seen.
A handsome rider, tall and proud, golden hair flowing with a glossy sheen.
He stopped when he saw the poor young girl lying on the ground.
Oh well, don't worry, no big loss, there were more beautiful princesses to be found.
He gallantly rode off upon his great steed to meet his next date.
Offhandedly he wondered if maybe this time,
he should try not to be late.

When trees go bare, something inside us dies, yet we still live. Colours of red and yellow and orange keep us alive. Leaves like a blazing rain pour down on our dull, meaningless world. The rain is bright, yet cold and dead. How can something so alive be so dead.

We watch them float down to death and they rest in peace. Do they rest in peace? Maybe not, for sometimes they are thrown into the air and crushed underneath our feet.

When the fall comes, something inside us dies.

The junior soccer team consisted of 35 members who ranged from grade 4 to grade 9. This large and varied group worked very well together to develop individual skills as well as the team skills necessary to work toward success. The whole team practiced and played with a sense of fun and determination. We will remember: Mr. Earle, running the hill, the tension of a tied game, long bus rides, practices that got progressively colder and darker, "Bungee" the cat, winning a game by penalty kicks (Thanks Lauren!), Kristin Kizoff's expert help, the ref who got hit in the head, seeing ourselves on video, and . . . wearing shin guards. Thanks for a great season everyone.

Our 1994 junior swim team was great. We came in third place in every swim meet and were in third place at the Bishop's Cup. We swam with enthusiasm and cheered each other on. I would especially like to thank Mrs. Lumsdon for being such a good coach and for cheering us on. I would also like to thank her for helping me out as a Swim Team Captain. I hope that next year we will have as good a team as this year and I wish the next Swim Team Captain lots of luck.

SENIOR SCHOOL
1994/95

Senior School has been bustling with energy this year. Perhaps the new timetable with six classes every day has made everyone seem busier! We welcomed grade 8 as well as an additional grade 9 class to the east side of Mount Pleasant. In assembly, we have heard speakers on a wide range of interesting topics. Timothy Findley spent a day with us at the school reading to us and later discussing writing with some of our prospective authors. In the course of the year, a large number of students have shown their concern for school, community and world issues. Some senior division students have been trained to form a Branksome peer support group. Others have spent time preparing for conferences that will help students understand current issues. Still others are actively involved in volunteer work within the community. The gyms, playing field and pool have echoed with the sounds of success as committed students and coaches have been involved on numerous teams and in athletic clubs. The speakers and debaters have been active in competitions and workshops, and we are especially proud of Joanne Sitarski who earned a place on the Canadian team to speak at The World Debating and Public Speaking Championships in Cyprus in March. Many of our musicians had a memorable four days in New Orleans in addition to the excellent performances they gave in the school and in the community. Actors displayed their talents in the docudrama, Three One Act Plays and The Revue and were supported by talented and dedicated back stage crews. The Senior School is a stimulating environment that has been enriched by the presence of the grade 8's. The school will be further enriched when Grade 7's become part of the eastside of Branksome.

Bon Voyage!

Mrs. Read now . . .

and then.

Helen Read's association with Branksome began when she enrolled in 1933. Since then, she has been part of the community as a student, a mother of three Branksome students, an Alumnae President, a Board Member, and an invaluable member of the General Office. She has worked her way upward!

In each of these roles, Helen Read has given generously of her time, wisdom, loyalty, friendship and humour.

Many students and staff will remember a time when help from Helen made the difference, or a laugh generated by her saved the day.

Helen, characteristically, is not going from something but is going to many things: her family, particularly her young grandson, her friends, her cottage and the many interests she has never had enough time to pursue.

Will our friend go gently into retirement, or will she roll back the top of the Little Red Racer, shift into high gear and take off at full speed?

Whichever way she chooses, we wish this strong, gracious and very funny lady a long and happy retirement. We'll miss you, Helen.

Mrs. Kastner then . . .

Jane Kastner's heart and home have not been far away from Branksome and Elm Avenue since she first attended the school as a student in 1946.

Jane Kastner is best known to current Branksome students and parents as one of the two friendly operators whose voices greet telephone callers with a cheerful salutation. Jane has worked alongside Helen Read in the General Office for the last six years. She will be retiring from this position in June, 47 years after her graduation from Branksome in 1948.

Sherborne House was Jane's home away from home for two unforgettable years. Jane treasures the fond memories of those post-war years in the residence and the friendships she formed.

After an 18 year absence from Branksome and Elm Avenue, Jane Kastner joined the Branksome Alumnae Association Executive when she took an apartment at 5 Elm Avenue. Between 1966 and 1986 Jane held various jobs with the Alumnae, including that of recording secretary.

Jane's longstanding interest in the school and its people led her to accept a full-time position in the residence in 1986, and Buccleuch House gained a caring and compassionate Housemother. Jane moved to her present job in the senior school 6 years ago. Her gracious manner, her kind concern for the well-being of others, and her morning smile will be greatly missed by regular visitors to the General Office.

Branksome has provided Jane with happy memories and long-standing friendships. Your friends at Branksome would like to wish you a long and healthy retirement, Jane.

FAREWELLS

SEANA MASSEY

Seana Massey returned to Branksome in December, 1993, making the transition from alumna to staff member. She has divided her time to Banksome between the Admissions and Development offices, and she has done excellent work in both departments.

In Admissions, Seana has been responsible for marketing, advertising and the co-ordination of special events. In addition, she has been involved with all aspects of the admissions process and has been a special favourite with the Grades 4 and 5 candidates! In Development, Seana has been Editor of our Branksome publications. She has expanded the Branksome Newsletter, making its focus our Alumnae. The Branksome Hallmark is a new publication Seana has been responsible for from the initial concept through all phases of development to the production of the first issue in August 1994. It provides a quarterly review of all school activities. Seana has set new standards of excellence for our publications.

It has been a delight working with Seana and we wish her good luck in her travels acoss Africa.

NORAH CORRIGAN MILLS

Norah is leaving Branksome to begin her own gardening business from her country home near Creemore.

She has worked tirelessly for Branksome in her many roles as alumna, parent and staff member.

Most recently, Norah has been the library assistant in the Senior School, but she first joined the Staff in 1981 in the alumnae office. In conjunction with the alumnae and Parent's Association, she created and ran the Uniform Shop. She has particulary enjoyed interacting with the girls and uses adjectives like wonderful and marvellous to describe her years at Branksome.

Norah's dedication, her sense of humour and her willingness to tackle any situation she is presented with will be truly missed. Norah is a "doer" who gets things done.

We wish her great success and much happiness in her new venture.

ELLEN REID

Ellen Reid has given all she has and more to school, home and friends. We, in guidance, were truly blessed to have been a part of that generosity. Ellen is leaving after nineteen years of teaching, seven of those at Branksome Hall. She came to Branksome in September 1988 to teach science and biology for Mrs. McGregor who was on sabbatical leave. Ellen returned the following year to work in the guidance department and to teach math. In September 1994 she became the head of the guidance department.

During her time at Branksome, Ellen organized the "take your daughter to work" program for the grade 9 students. She also gave a great deal of time and energy as staff advisor to The Slogan and was instrumental in developing the patron page. She has been the school liaison with Ashley and Crippen who do the school photography such as home room pictures, grad portraits and garden party.

Although Ellen is leaving us as a teacher, she will return as a Branksome parent (Jana will be a new grade 9 student), and also as a volunteer. She intends to learn to play golf, garden, join the Field Naturalist Club of Ontario and to spend time with her family.

Of her years at the school she says, that she has enjoyed working with so many interesting, intelligent and delightful people, both students and colleagues.

We are sure that we speak for all at Branksome when we say that Ellen was a pleasure to work with and will be sadly missed. We wish you good luck and continued success.

Josie Kizoff and Karyl Bailey

JILL WOOLLEY

Jill joined the Branksome Hall teaching staff in September 1988. She taught 9 and 10 science for several years and has played a prominent role in the Physical Education Department where she has taught grades 9 through 12 seven years. Through her own commitment to an active lifestyle and personal health and well-being, she has been an inspiration to her students.

Jill's contribution to the Athletics programme at Branksome has been outstanding. Her love is coaching and the cross country, track and field and senior volleyball teams have all benefitted from her expertise, her dedication and her boundless energy. Their achievements include inidividual OFSAA championships in cross country and track, a Junior girls OFSAA championship in cross country, 6 TDCAA cross country championships, 3 TDCAA Track championships, CISAA Cross Country, Track and Volleyball championships and TDCAA Volleyball finalists for 2 years. Jill has instilled a love of sport and hard work in all her athletes.

Jill may be retiring from this job, only to go home to another job looking after her three precious daughters. We wish her well and will miss her smiling face!

Dear Ribbit,

Everything in Admissions has been AMAZING this year! Starting in September, we had a huge response to our request for tour guides. Everyone received outlines of the routes which included interesting facts and information to give prospective families. This made the tour guides feel more comfortable on their tours.

Grandparents' Day was a great success. We toured the grandparents through different areas of the school and showed them where their granddaughters spent their days.

We had excellent turnouts at our Open Houses and we received many compliments on the tours that the students gave.

Thank you to everyone who was so dedicated this year. We really appreciated those of you who gave up your spares in order to show your school. You helped many families get to know our school and you made it impossible for them not to choose Branksome!

Sincerely,
Devon Domelle

In October 1994, Joanne Sitarski, Aisling Yeoman and Rawiya Sharif flew to Victoria, B.C., to represent Branksome at the International Independent School's Public Speaking Competition. Joanne earned a place on the national team which represented Canada at the World Public Speaking Competition in Cyprus, March 1995. Aisling and Rawiya had exceptional results as well.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A BRANKSOME GIRL
She arrived at school in the usual way
Just in time to start her day
The first class that she had to attend
Seemed like it would never end
In assembly there was a skit or two Chieftains dressed in red and blue
In the Common Room she found a place to study
Where she could work with her best buddy
Lunch places to go and people to see
Meetings with Opheleo, Gaia and the Debating Society
Afternoon classes quickly went
And by the end of the day, you'd think she'd be spent
But our heroine is sporty too:
Basketball or soccer, which to do?
And then there is a play to be done,
Another opportunity to have some fun
Leading a full life as you can see
The Branksome girl is busy as a bee
There is so much to do at Branksome Hall
We could never list them all
Do the things you like best
But leave some time to try the rest
Thanks for a great year

THE ROUT

STUDENT LIFE

The student life section of SLOGAN '95 is a record of the memorable events and the spirit of the student body. It reminds us of the innovative projects successfully managed by the students. Every year at Branksome is unique with each grade contributing new ideas to school life through Student Council, the Student Life Committee, and Clans and Clubs. The vitality of our organizations and their leaders inspires the whole school's enthusiasm and participation. Look through the pages on Student Life and reflect on and enjoy the ordinary and the extraordinary events that made 1994-95 special.

Congrats to the hundreds of participants that have helped to make this year so phenomenal. Since my first year at Branksome, I have discovered the many opportunities that are offered to the students, outside of school time. This year, students partook in Intermediate Drama, Junior Choir, Choir, Chamber Choir, Jazz Choir, Concert Band, Stage Band, Wind Ensemble, Symphony Orchestra, Clarinet Ensemble and Strings. Many students were involved in more than one group and some were rewarded for their time commitment to the arts through the Arts Award Pin presented to students with exceptional time devoted to the arts.

If you weren't an active participant, but were an active spectator, there were many other options for you. The musical groups put on the Winter and Spring Concerts, toured New Orleans and did their own separate performances that added to their volunteer hours. There was also the traditional Carol Service that brought in a full house (yet again) in St. Paul's. In the fall the dramatically inclined students entertained you with the Branksome Revue (Branksome's first student run production) and in the spring, Three One Act Plays.

Many thanx to the arts teachers and my Arts Council with Arts Week and Muses News Crisis (our Arts Section in the school's newspaper, The Kilt Press). My best wishes for years to come.

Restaurant Critique

A new Restaurant has opened under rock #5. The owner, David Dragonfly, offers a variety of meals including fly stir-fry and fungi soup. The atmosphere is friendly and the service is prompt. A great place for a casual night.

DID YOU EVER?

Did you ever love a guy and thought he didn't care?
Did you ever feel like crying, but knew you'd get no where?
Did you ever look into his eyes and say a little prayer?
Did you ever look into his heart and wish your heart was there?
Did you ever hear him breathing, when the lights were way down low?
Did you ever say, "I love you," but couldn't tell him so?
Did you ever wonder where he is and wonder if he's true?
One minute you're feeling happy and the next you're feeling blue.
When it starts you don't know why, you wonder day and night.
You see, my friend, you're losing him, no matter how you fight.
Love is fine, but it hurts so much, the price you pay is high.
If I could choose between life and death, I know I'd rather die.
I tell you, my friend, don't fall in love, you'll be hurt before you're through.
You see, my friend, I ought to know, for I fell in love with you.

RIBBIT WINS AWARD

Our very own Ribbit is pictured above, holding his "Frog of the Pond" award. Congratulations, Ribbit, you are a model amphibian for all of our tadpoles.

SOMETIMES I WONDER.

Sometimes I wonder.
I wonder if they can see through the cracks in my mask.
I wonder if they sneaked in and saw my naked face in the dawn before I woke up.
I wonder if they look past the stone face plastered to my head and see the no face beneath
But then I stop because the thought of it makes me want to hide alone in the quiet

THE HIGHER MIND THAN THE HIGHER BODY

I'm the only atom in this world.
There is no one to be my friend.
They go off into their little multi-coloured planets,
While I watch in disgust from way above.
Lonely only because of purity,
No hate only because of pity,
They seem to laugh at me,
Although I am the higher one.
I am able to conquer them and crush them,
everyone,
But the pity is in the way.
I am able to join them,
But the purity is in the way.
All of this is what I see,
Though small I am,
I am the universe within.

IS IT EASY BEING GREEN?
by Tommy Turtle
Daily Columnist

Frogs from various ponds are organizing weekly defense courses, aimed to teach young tadpoles how to avoid being caught by human's nets. Over the past few years, it seems that frogs have become the target of fisherman's or young children's nets. The trapped frogs are either forced to lead a life in a jar or ever more horrific, are used as bait.

HATRED

I stand between two countries, with two reluctant feet.
I stand where they will fight and kill,
where two enemies will meet.

I see bloodshed and hatred,
with two reluctant eyes.
I hear another gunshot,
a familiar sound that I despise

I smell blood in the air,
with a reluctant breath.
I know too well the bitter evil smell of death.

I understand my future,
with a reluctant brain.
I remember how things used to be and wish they'd stayed the same.

The sun is dying into the night and I close a reluctant eye.
I know what is happening,
yet I dare not question why.

UNTITLED

Cold and gloomy, wet and dark
A funeral procession, silence.
The depression of confident souls
Sinking deep down, doomed.
Loud, oppressive —
A clap of thunder, but no lightning.
Bodies in trench coats and
Black bowler hats,
Hurrying, hunched over, Fleeing
The terrifying, sleeting
Rain.
It comes down in torrents,
Merciless, unpitying.
Even the meekest mortals
Rained out of their hovels.
Cruel, uncaring, cold, unrelenting,
Drip, Drip, Drip.
Then, no sound.
All the living have died, frozen,
No sound, no noise, except —
Drip, Drip, Drip.

MY UNFORGETTABLE DAY

Never have I felt the fervour of spirituality except the time when I visited Haridwar, the holiest city in India. As I was sitting on the platform right by the Ganges River, I stared into the soft rippling water. It amazed me to think that one day my ashes will be placed in this very water. Beside me, a young boy was bathing himself in the cool, refreshing water and was calling out "Hare Ganga, Hare Ganga" which translates to "Hail Ganges, Hail Ganges." The sight of such love and devotion for the Holy River Ganges made me smile.

Prayers were about to start as it was nearing seven p.m. Hundreds of people, including my family, were gathering around the river and getting prepared for prayers by placing colourful, fragmented flowers onto a bowl-shaped banana leaf. The flowers surrounded an unlit candle which was set in the centre. An elderly lady, with an extraordinary amount of patience, tried to light the candles for those of us who were unsuccessful in our attempts. Because of the slight breeze from the holy water, it was quite difficult to perform this task. I watched her carefully as she lit the candles, and when she did light a candle, I was clearly able to see the faithful expression on her face, for the light from the fire of the candle glowed brightly on her. Though she seemed to perform this task every day, her dedication and determination were boundless.

As I looked around, I saw people making final preparations with their banana leaves. These banana leaves are an offering to God and to the ashes of the deceased which rest in the Ganges. The lady approached me and attempted many times to light my candle. As she was doing this, I studied her face which was of a dark complexion. She had many wrinkles on her face, but the eagerness in her dark brown eyes abolished her aged appearance. Her hair was pulled back from her face by a bun. As I was looking at her and admiring her assistance, she looked up and smiled at me after she succeeded in lighting my candle. Soon I heard the bells ringing and the beat of the drums at the other side of the Ganges River. The prayers were starting. I walked carefully, holding my banana leaf to the Ganges and when I approached it, I closed my eyes and thought of my dearly beloved ones whom I knew and will forever know in my heart. I thought of how my offering was probably the closest contact I could ever have with them. I especially thought of my cousin whom I had seen for the first and last time two years ago. I opened my eyes, gently kissed my offering, bent down and placed it in the holy water. I saw it slowly float away on the rippled water. At that moment, it felt as if my heart and soul were implanted on the banana leaf and were also floating away, far from my motionless body.

In the innocence of youth
  he stood
Amongst his friends
  his only friends
Naive
  from a sheltered life
His longing brown eyes,
Soft and understnding,
Passive, yet yearning.
  He yearned to be loved
  But always aware
  That there was never a chance for he was quiet
like a doll
a china doll
with porcelain skin
and soft brown eyes
and animal friends
and fancy clothes
and lots of toys
  But that was all
  He had no soul
And no one to help him find it.

CRYSTAL CRAZED

Crystal Pulsing through her veins invincible to age or maim
Kidnap her: don't be sure
That you have trapped the Crystal Singer

Legends age old may tell
The story of a princess well
But with her you'll ne'er be sure
That rumours you hear told are true

Her healing process, sight and voice
Are superior, perhaps by choice
You will never know her secret
For she'll never reveal it
Unless you go to Ballybran
You'll find out what happens then
But beware when you get there
You may not venture very long

Myths of these select few may tell
How they always do so well

The Hepitite Guild
To apply for the Hepitite Guild you must have perfect pitch
With no mistake it's theirs to take
And when you know the dangers then you must decide
If you should apply to become crystal crazed

Only very, very few ever do what you can do
For adaptation must be perfect: It must be the kind they need
Otherwise you'll end up doing something not quite so glamorous
(Although, the Guild can be quite magnanimous)
They can also rule your life
For the Guild has but one strife: All must be loyal or watch out!

I have heard Space Captains spin stories
Of Crystal Singers
in their ships' mess halls
They've got gall
They speak of the Silicate Spider
The Crystalline Cuckoo

But pay no heed because I know
What she knows
Of crystal pulsing through my veins
The torture of invincibility
We may not leave Ballybran for very long
Because of what happens when long gone

We must return
We have no choice
We must cut crystal
With our voice
But beware!
Because being there too long,
For a singer,
Can breed
insanity.

THE LAST OF THE LAST

the last man dead
they hoped the last to die

is there ever a last?

they said never say never
the last of the last
the end of the dying

for some
the end of the road come to peace
to rest

the last means forever is anything?

peace while it lasted
then fell
a waterfall forever

why did men fall?

water for blood
blood for peace

they thought he was the last of the last to die

Lost Island

I showed her up to my room where we would spend the night. I watched her as she lay down her bag and slowly walked around the room. Her hair was long now and she looked older, but it was her eyes that caught my attention. They weren't as they used to be. They were darker and seemed to be angry or hurt. Her eyes were now the sort you could not look into easily. There was something separating her from the world, an imaginary wall she had built around herself. I suppose it was all one could expect after such a thing had happened. I watched her walk around the room, not quite knowing what to say. That line of silent communication had been cut, we were like two lost islands in an ocean.

Later that night, we started talking about all of those basic topics that teenagers cover. We were talking about things, but it felt like we were missing the main subject. We weren't really missing it, but rather avoiding it in this little play we had created. We were the actors, playing our part, leaving ourselves somewhere else. I wanted to stop and tell her that we couldn't pretend that nothing had happened, for I could tell that her eyes weren't smiling with her lips. Instead I remained quiet and kept playing my part, almost as well as she.

She was showing me pictures in her wallet, when suddenly there it was. The acting stopped. The nerve of pain had been touched. She turned towards me and said, "It still hurts." I just sat there. I thought that maybe now those two islands in the ocean had communicated. "I've never been so lost or scared," she said. I knew that her island in the ocean had suddenly become part of a violent storm, the kind that never ends. She was in the heart of this storm and was being carried away with the tides. "I've just got to get my life back to the way it was before," she whispered. She knew. I knew she couldn't do that, but I knew what I had to do. I had to calm the violent storm and still those recky waters. I realized that perhaps we had never really been acting. She was really trying to be normal, as she was before. I also realized that we weren't two islands in an ocean. She was the only island in the ocean. It was her task to try to reach the shore, to find herself and to guide herself. Perhaps that is why she created her invisible wall. As I watched her walk out of the room, I hoped that she was headed in the right direction.

Dedicated to those who have been there.

OUR SPORTS CAPTAIN, ERIN

This year Branksome athletics were totally great,
the other schools did not even rate.
We were the best from the east to the west,
we were better than all the rest.
Everyone came out to participate,
even if they had a swinging hot date.
We had tons of spirit at autumn games,
where all the other private schools came.
We beat those boys in the tug of war,
but they still came back for more and more.
The challenge still has yet to come,
where once again we'll show everyone.
That Branksome is the place to be,
play a sport and you will see.
Thanks Branksome for a great year, especially the coaches, let's give them a cheer!

Good luck next year!
Love
Erin
